ABSTRACT

This publication is a selected list of games and simulations concerned with urban, environmental, and social problems. The contents are divided into four major parts: (1) games developed at the University of Michigan; (2) games distributed by Simile II; (3) games distributed by other companies; and (4) computerized gaming/simulations. All titles are listed alphabetically. An appendix lists games specifically for elementary and high school students and describes major sources of gaming information. Each entry includes an identification statement, developers of the game, the number of players, game time, and source of the game. The games listed in the contents are for a variety of ages and educational purposes. (MA)

A SELECTED LIST

OF URBAN, ENVIRONMENTAL AND SOCIAL PROBLEM GAMING / SIMULATIONS

We do not intend this list to be definitive, but hope it will be useful as a starting point for obtaining further information about specific games. We have tried to omit gaming/simulations not considered useful for some educational purpose, as well as most which do not focus on one or another "social concern."

We often are asked which age group a particular game is best suited for. One of the beauties of games is that they are, as the advertiser likes to say, "suitable for all ages"--at least junior high and up. In fact, we find that young people play many "adult level" games more easily and more fully, since they are less inhibited and more willing to experiment.

Nevertheless, we have omitted from the list most games designed principally for use within the elementary or secondary classroom. However, the Appendix contains a list of sources of games specifically for elementary and high school people.

THE APPENDIX ALSO DESCRIBES MANY OF THE MAJOR SOURCES OF GAMING INFORMATION.

* An asterisk before a game indicates that more detailed information about it may be obtained from the Extension Gaming Service. Please consult the Price List for cost, if any. Further information about other games should be requested from the distributor and/or game developer.

APPENDIX

I. LISTINGS AND BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Handbook of Simulation Gaming in Social Education, ed. Ron Stadsklev, (Institute of Higher Education Research Services/Box 6293/University, AL 35486). Textbook Section-Part One ($5.50) on the theory, use and design of games. Directory-Part Two ($16) is an amazingly fine collection of basic information on the following: (1) Simulation games relevant to all aspects of "social education"--succinctly described; critiqued with an emphasis on use; and cross-referenced for interest areas (American, Business, Consumer, Drugs, Family, Human Relations, International, Law, Urban, Women), subject areas (Anthropology, Ecology, Economics, Futurism, Geography, Health, History, Political Science, Psychology, Religion, Sociology, Teacher Training), grade level, and costs; (2) Sources, publishers and distributors of simulation games; (3) Simulation gaming action-and-training centers; (4) Dissertations and reports (annotated listing); (5) Bibliographies (also annotated).

The third edition of The Guide to Simulations/Games for education and training has just come out, edited by Robert E. Horn. A fine compendium. Vol. One--Academic simulations/games--contains chapters on Special Interest Games, Addictions, Communications, Community Issues, Computer, Games for the Disadvantaged, Domestic Politics, Ecology, Economics, Education, Frame Games, Future, Geography, Health Care, History, International Relations, Language Skills, Legal System, Mathematics, Military, Policy, Practical Economics, Religion, Science, Self-Development, Skill Development, Social Studies, Special Education, Unclassified, Urban, and Last Minute Entries. Vol. Two--Business simulations/games--features Total Enterprise: Computerized, Total Enterprise: Manual, Production, Personnel Development, Sales and Marketing, Finance, and Specific Industry. Available from Didactic Systems, Inc./P.O. Box 457/Cranford, NJ 07016/(201)272-5004 at these prices: $23 (plus $2 shipping/handling) for Vol. One; $12(+$2) for Vol. Two; $27(+$2) for both volumes bound under one cover.

Contemporary Games ed. Jean Belch. Gale Research Co./Book Tower/Detroit, MI 48226. Directory: $35. Bibliography: $45.

You Game It is "An Annotated Topical Index of Simulation/Games for Christian Educators," edited by Jim Geaslen. Thorough; annotated; indexed by topic. Availabe for $3.00 plus postage from Jim Geaslen/Ashland Theological Seminary/Ashland, OH.

The Business Games Handbook (by Robert G. Graham and Clifford B. Gray, American Management Association, Inc., 1969) contains related readings and descriptions of a large number of games useful within business and industry.

Gaming: An Annotated Catalogue of Law-Related Games and Simulations is a helpful listing of games under the following topics: Basic Concepts of Law; The Constitution (The Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Branches); The Bill of Rights (Liberty Under Law: First Amendment Freedoms; Justice Under Law: Due Process; Equality Under Law: Women, Youth, and Ethnic Minorities); Current Issues (The City and Its Problems; The Consumer and the Law; Police and Corrections; Public Revenues and Public Services); the Political Process (The Campaign Trail; State and Local Government; The National Scene; The International Arena); Teacher Resources. AVAILABLE FROM: American Bar Association Special Committee on Youth Education for Citizenship/1155 E. 60th St./Chicago, IL 60637. This publication is "Working Notes, No. 9"; Susan E. Davison, ed.

Urban Gaming/Simulation '77: An Ongoing Conference for Educators and Trainers (ed. Larry C. Coppard and Frederick L. Goodman) contains an overview of the urban gaming field and sections on over sixty specific urban games. Many of these sections include a fine detailed game description, a bibliography, and interviews of some length with the game designer as well as with someone(s) who has run the game and someone(s) who has played it--thereby providing a rich perspective on each game. Available for $12 from The University of Michigan/Publications Distribution Service/615 East University Ave./Ann Arbor, MI 48109.

II. SOME SIMULATION/GAMING ORGANIZATIONS

NASAGA is the North American Simulation and Gaming Association (an outgrowth of the former National Gaming Council), a professional organization of educators, trainers, and others involved in the design and/or use of simulations and games. Contact person: Richard McGinty/COMEX Project/University of Southern California/Davidson Conference Center/University Park/Los Angeles, CA 90007.

ISAGA is the International Simulation and Gaming Association.

ABSEL is the Association for Business Simulation and Experiential Learning, an international association of business professors, persons, and government employees dedicated to innovative teaching and research utilizing simulations and other experiential techniques. Contact person: J. Ronald Frazer/School of Management/Clarkson College/Potsdam, NY 13676

For a comprehensive, annotated listing of other simulation/gaming organizations, action-and-training centers, and distributors, see Ron Stadsklev's Handbook of Simulation Gaming in Social Education, Part Two: Directory (described in Item I of this appendix.).

III. SOME OF THE BEST CATALOGS AVAILABLE FROM DISTRIBUTORS:

Educational Manpower, Inc. (EMI)/P.O. Box 4272/Madison, WI 53711/(608) 274-4180 is selling under its umbrella a large number of games also offered by a variety of distributors (e.g. Simile II, Urbex, Abt, etc.). Write for their two catalogs: (1) K-6th grade Simulations and Games: Art, Math, Music, Science, Social Studies, Language Arts, Physical Education; (2) Junior High--College Catalog for Social Studies Featuring Simulations/Games/Multi-Media Kits: Political Science, Civics, History, Geography, Economics, Anthropology, Urban & Community Problems, Alcohol & Drug Education, Race Relations, Personal Problems, Values, Self, World Problems!

Simile II/218 Twelfth St./P.O. Box 910/Del Mar, CA 92014/(714) 755-0272.

Interact/P.O. Box 262/Lakeside, CA 92040

IV. A FEW HELPFUL BOOKS

Pfeiffer and Jones are the editors of A Handbook of Structured Experiences for Human Relations Training, a collection of group process and/or sensitivity-type exercises. Most of them can be utilized within a short time span. (University Associates/7596 Eads Ave./La Jolla, CA 92037.) Volumes I-V: $5 each. Vol. VI: $5.50.

Cathy Greenblat and Richard Duke are the editors of Gaming-Simulation: Rationale, Design, and Applications, a fine collection of "readings" on "The Nature and Rationale of Gaming-Simulation," (Part I), "Elements of Design and Construction" (Part II), "Gaming-Simulation for Teaching and Training" (Part III), and "Other Arenas and Applications," (Part IV). Intended for social scientists, educators and community workers, the book is published by SAGE Publications/Halsted Press Division/John Wiley & Sons/New York/1975.

In Learning Through Simulation Games (Paulist Press/400 Sette Dr./Paramus, NJ 07652/$7.95), Phil Gillispie describes in detail over twenty-five well-known simulation games (even "Monopoly"!) and suggests utilizing them to explore the themes of freedom, life, peace, love, happiness, and communication. There are some factual inaccuracies, but these are more than made up for by including the complete instructions for several original games: Max's Diner (Intergov)--the inter-relationship of city, state, and federal governments; Mission VII--the effect of imposing one culture on another; Disarmament--trust, negotiation, conflict; Mapping--the importance of planning in local churches; Values/Youth Culture --explicit values as the basis for designing and implementing change; COG (Coalesce, Oppose, or Grapple)--the reorganization of the federal process and revenue sharing.

Taking Action: Writing, Reading, Speaking and Listening through Simulation-Games by Lynn Quitman Troyka and Jerrold Nudelman, Prentice Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, NJ, 1975, $4.70, paper, (Teacher's Manual available from publisher by persistent request.) contains six easy-to-administer simulation games, together with suggested learning exercises in both the communication arts and the subject areas of the games. Each game is built around the same simple frame, or structure. Once you've seen one, you--or the learners you facilitate--can build dozens more on the topics of your choice.

Margaret Warne Monroe has adapted "Policy Negotiations" (See Section I) to four urban problem areas. Urban Games: Four Case Studies in Urban Development illustrates with clarity how "Policy Negotiations" can be utilized as an analytic tool, and then as a planning tool, for any specific social problem. Operator's Manual and Player's Manual available from: Urbex Affiliates, Inc./P.O. Box 2198/Ann Arbor, MI 48106. (Game Operator's manual: $4; Player's manual: $3; Set of one Operator's and ten Player's manuals: $29).

The New Games Book: Play Hard, Play Fair, Nobody Hurt (ed. Andrew Fluegelman/ New Games Foundation) is a collection of dozens of "NEW GAMES" for adults and/or children. The introduction says of these games, most of which involve physical activity as well as skill and strategy: "As you read this book, you'll discover that what's new about these games is the way you play them. You can choose to compete because competition is fun, not because you're concerned with who wins. If you've all played hard and enjoyed it, then you've all won." Also included in the book are excellent supplementary articles on this freeing perspective. The games truly are "new," although you may recognize some as those you once played as a child. (Available from your local bookstore. Dolphin Books/Doubleday & Co., Inc./Garden City, NY/1976/$4.95.)

VIII. WFF'N PROOF Publishers offer a number of games which make the learning of logic, mathematics, language, science, and critical analysis genuinely fun. Their emphasis is not on what to think, but how to think. Included are On-Words ($10), WFF'N PROOF ($13), Equations ($10), On-Sets ($10), Queries 'n Theories ($13), The Propaganda Game ($11), and others. Available from: WFF'N PROOF/1490-EK South Blvd./Ann Arbor, MI 48104.

IX. Pennant Educational Materials (4680 Alvarado Canyon Road/San Diego, CA 92120/(714) 282-8101) offers a variety of short value games for children and adults.

X. The Anti-Defamation Leauge of B'nai B'rith has four large-scale simulation games on new tensions in the schools for use by administrators, teachers, and teacher trainees. Each game recreates on film and in some written work human relations conflicts within potentially destructive situations characteristic of multi-ethnic schools or of schools in transition. Complete kits (including sound films, background materials, manuals, and guides) are priced as follows: Confrontation (for a multi-ethnic elementary school), $410; Valleybrook (for a desegregated elementary school), $255.50; Lakemont (for a desegregated secondary school), $318.50; Needham (for a school that has become predominantly black), $290. Rental and preview rates also available. Contact: Ms. Sophie Plick/315 Lexington Ave./New York, NY 10016/(212) 689-7400.

XI. SOME SOURCES OF INFORMATION ON PEACE/WAR/GLOBAL ISSUES GAMING/SIMULATIONS:

Ways and Means of Teaching about World Order: No. 8 (Winter 1972): "Simulating for Peace" lists five simulation games focusing on conflict in the international system. (Prepared by the School Program of the World Law Fund/11 West 42nd St./New York, NY 10036.)

Teaching about War and Its Control: A Selective Annotated Bibliography for the Social Studies Teacher, (William A. Nesbitt, ed., 1972) contains games among its many listed resources. (Available from the University of the State of New York/The State Education Dept./Center for International Programs and Comparative Studies/Albany, NY 12224.)

"Teaching Global Issues through Simulation: It Can Be Easy," ed. William A. Nesbitt, is Issue #75 of Intercom, published by the Center for War/Peace Studies/218 E. 18 Street/New York, NY 10003. Subscription rates vary; single issues $1.50. This issue offers an excellent, readable introduction to using games, particularly within the classroom. Coverage is basic yet comprehensive, including some in-depth discussion of such matters as competition vs. cooperation, etc. Complete instructions for Barbara Ellis Long's The Road Game included; also descriptions of thirteen "global issues" games. Application to global issues is present throughout as well, but on the whole is incidental to the main thrust: beginning to use games.

XII. Family Pastimes makes and distributes games of cooperation (Play together not against one another). RR4/Perth, Ontario/Canada K7H 3C6.
